NORTHERN WISCONSIN DEVELOPMENT

That rapidly developing territory which occupies the northern half of Wisconsin is not new enough to cause the hardships and vicissitudes of frontier life, and old enough to keep away the intending settler on account of exorbitant land prices. It is in that stage of partial development which gives great opportunity to bring it to the highest point of perfection and prosperity. Schools, good roads and other improvements are going in. All that is needed is a small capital. Brains and brawn, employed by push and energy, will do the rest. The iron ore, marl, kolin and clay beds the timber and the rich soil, give equal opportunity to the settler and the manufacturer. Land is cheap and can be purchased on easy terms.

THE WISCONSIN CENTRAL

offers facilities for the quick and cheap transportation of its products and its line penetrates to the very center of this vast northern territory, choice of location is not confined to any one particular locality. ANTIOCH, ILLINOIS.

New York police scandals have been frequent and dirty, but the last one is about the worst ever show up, and if it does not make an anti-Tammany victory certain in the coming municipal contest it will be because a majority of the voters there believe in thieving officials.

China isn't afraid of being drained by the paying of the big indemnity. She is looking for a suitable site in Washington to erect a legation building, which Minister Wu says will be one of the most palatial and ornate buildings of its kind in the world.

There isn't the slightest danger that American interests will be injured by the little revolutionary mixup on the Isthmus of Panama. Those people down there are very careful to avoid Uncle Sam's toes when they take a notion to do a little hopping around.

There is a marked difference between the newspaper accounts of the oil gushers of Texas and the cold facts contained in official reports on the oil region. Intending investors will lose nothing by seeing the latter before turning loose their cash.

Senator Platt, of New York, was just human enough to call attention to the fact that the police crookedness would have been impossible under his state police bill. But he is not talking for a revival of that bill, as he said he would reopen the matter.

A favorite expression of M. Legouere, the oldest member of the French Academy, reads: "It is often said that God condemned man to work. This is absurd. God condemned man to live, and gave him work as a mitigating circumstance."

Great Britain has spent in Missouri and Kansas $5,000,000 for horse flesh, a result of the Boer war. Another illustration of the correctness of the adage, "It is an ill wind" etc.

If they convict and imprison all the New York officials who have been bribed, Dick Croker's source of income will be destroyed and he may have to go to work. Horrible thought!

Even Senator Vest has given free silver a kick, and Corn Harvey has admitted that the money question will not figure in the next campaign. "Mr. Bryan still sticks to silver."

Even if burning at the stake were a sure deterrent of crime in others, which it admittedly is not, its brutalizing effect would prevent the general adoption by a civilized people.

Hon. Thomas B. Reed hardly considered the suggestion of his becoming a candidate for Mayor of New York complimentary to either his political or business judgment.

CAMP LAKE.

This week has been the most eventful and entertaining since the opening of the holiday season. The hotels have been crowded to their utmost capacity and the varied forms of amusement have been fully enjoyed.

Fishing has dropped off almost entirely because of the numerous disappointments and the rifle has taken place of the rod with success. The holiday season is fast nearing an end and many families are going home to prepare for the fall and opening of the schools.

On last Sunday evening over one hundred departed leaving behind them their sincere regrets at the severance, even for a time, from kind friends, pleasant entertainments and picturesque scenery surrounding this romantic, pure air breathing resort.

On Tuesday last two buses filled with ladies and gentlemen—one was used for the children only—together with a surrey for invited guests, friends of Mr. and Mrs. Morton Kimball, of Chicago, at present guests of this hotel, visited Antioch, Ill., and after enjoying refreshments proceeded to Channel lake where they met with many friends and enjoyed their kind hospitality. Later in the evening the company returned to the hotel greatly refreshed and delighted with their day's outing.

The picnic for the benefit of the Catholic church at this place was held on last Thursday and was a great success. A fund for the erection of a new church was created and the pastor feels highly grateful at splendid attendance together with the patronage of refreshment-stalls, etc. All the permanent personages were introduced and everyone enjoyed a happy day.

The evening concerts brought a galaxy of musical talent, surprising the large audience. Miss Vera E. Young, the brilliant young soprano, greatly charmed the company with her selections from operatic and high class music. Her voice is melodious with remarkable high range, although not fully developed. The applause which greets her nightly demonstrates that she is a popular favorite. Miss Jennie Rankin created much enthusiasm in her rendition of melodies touching the heart as well as creating sweet impulses. Her voice is excellent and well cultivated. Master James Luby, Mr. R. Farrell, Miss Miller, and others, contributed their vocal powers and each were warmly applauded. These evening concerts have drawn large crowds surrounding the hotel enjoying music seldom if ever heard outside of the great cities. The musical and instrumental program was conducted by Prof. Hendricks and his talented wife.

An interesting game of lawn tennis was played last Sunday between Fred R. Reiger and Lewis Sedlack vs John J. Prucha and J. G. Egeland. The game occupied two hours and was won by Reiger and Sedlack. The grounds were crowded and the interest in the game was interesting. A challenge game will be played during the week.

The Saturday evening dances is the leading feature and is recognized as the event looked for days in advance. The ladies are dressed in their best and the height of their enjoyment cannot be pictured. Last Saturday night was considered the best of the season and was indeed an enjoyable occasion. During the intermission a cake walk was given by Master James Luby and Miss Edith Webster, and the merriment was beyond bounds and the young couple retired amidst rounds of applause and congratulations.

The addition of Mr. and Mrs. Morton Kimball to the guests of Camp Lake hotel has added much to the pleasure of the company. Mr. Kimball is known as a genial companion and a good story teller and his friends need no medicine for the cure of the ills of life when he is around. Christian Science is a strong power with him and he succeeded in curing a woman of a pain in her pocket after she had lost her pocket book. Mr. and Mrs. Kimball drove all the way from Chicago in their surrey and are daily giving rides to friends who greatly appreciate their kindness.

The departure of Mr. and Mrs. William Webster and family are much regretted. They were indeed the very life of the company and since their departure last Sunday a great void which cannot be filled has been created. The head of the family amused himself with his gun and brought down several birds, squirrels, etc.

Mrs. Webster is a lady of sweet disposition and her many kind womanly traits have endeared her to the guests of this home of health and recreation. Her daughter Edith, is called "the brilliant," and the youngest Dorothy, loved and petted by everybody, was known as the "daughter of Camp Lake." On their departure at the station an ovation was given them which demonstrated the high esteem in which they were held.

As evidence of the great popularity of Maj. McClure, on his return from his two days absence to Chicago, at a picnic of the Irish American Societies, the entire populace of both Lamb's and Camp Lake hotels met him at the depot and escorted him to the hotel. The Major acknowledged the compliment by a graceful speech.

LAMB'S HOTEL.

This hotel has been crowded during the past week and the amusements have been numerous and enjoyable.

Evening concerts under the management of Miss Florence Lamb brought out amateurs surprisingly and many of the comic melodies were rich and rare.

Recitations, songs, card playing and together with a general conversation conducted by the genial proprietor of the hotel, who entertained the guests with a lecture on "Camp Lake in ancient and modern history and its resources in the development of physical science as an athletic institution," he said, "It beats the world—The paradise of America."

Many of the guests at Lamb's selected the upper lake for fishing and their labors were rewarded with greater success than at the larger lake.

Bus and hayrack riding to Antioch, Silver Lake, Burlington, Grass Lake and other points took place nearly every day and evening which added much to the enjoyment of the guests.

Ice cream festivals given by Miss Grace Clark, the talented postmistress, contributed largely to the comfort of the guests and are greatly appreciated by a very large circle of friends.

Several boat races took place and the excitement ran high. A few of the guests felt lighter in their pockets when the races were over.

The parties that took W. B. Higley's purse on Saturday, containing over $200 confessed their guilt as W. B. was about to make it warm for them, knowing who did the deed. On their pleading for mercy he let them go free after receiving the largest portion of it back.

The team got frightened and unmanageable near the W. O. tracks at a passing train and ran down the railroad track. transformation in him was not less marked than it was in her. But the hesitation was almost imperceptible, for with both hands she drew his head down and kissed him upon his brow. "Have you been undergoing a course of instruction also?" she asked, seating herself beside him. "The change in you is as great as it is in me. It is an improvement in both cases; don't you think so?"

"Yes. With me, Lisle, it is simply the resumption of my own. I was born here, lived here until I was 18; then I went away. Once I came back. That was 18 years ago. I intended never to come again, but you needed me, and here I am."

"Have you forgotten how to swear, Craig?"

"No; I have only laid the habit aside with my other clothes. They fit each other and are to be worn at the same time. Lisle, has any one told you that you are a beautiful woman?"

"Yes—laughing gaily—"I have not looked for information on that point."

"You were a handsome boy, but now you are superb. Before you go into anything else I want you to tell me all that has happened during these two months and more since I parted with you."

"Oh, that is quickly told. My father always kept a supply of cash in the house. There were several thousand dollars there at the time he died. I took it and went to San Francisco, traveling in my cowboy costume, for it was the only dress with which I was familiar. I had formed a plan of procedure, and when I arrived at my destination I carried it out to the letter. It consisted in finding a woman who would be at once a friend and an instructor, and I found one. I knew of a gentleman who had visited us once when I was quite young. He was a banker, and my father had business dealings with him, so that letters frequently passed between them. Among those letters I discovered his address, and as soon as I arrived in San Francisco I applied to him. I told him, of course, that I was Richard Maxwell's son, that my father was dead and that I desired his advice regarding several matters, the first one being a suitable place to live. He settled that in the way I wished him to do, for he invited me to his own home, and in his wife I found the friend I needed. My course of instruction began that same day, for I at once told her what I was, and I can assure you that my path has been strewn with roses from that day to this. Mr. and Mrs. Parsons came east with me and are here in the hotel. They are in their parlor now waiting for me to take you to them, for you may be sure that I have told them all about Craig Thompson. Will you come now and let me present you to them? They will be surprised, for you are not the Craig Thompson whom I have described to them. It is very funny. I have been apologizing all this time for your rough ways, which I have insisted are as natural to you as it is for water to run down hill. Will you go with me now?"

"Yes, and afterward I'll get a carriage, and we'll take a ride together. I want to talk to you, not to strangers. But before we go to them, Lisle, there is one question that I want to ask you."

"What is it, Craig?"

"Are you sorry now that you are a woman?"

"No, Craig; I am glad that I am a woman. My heart is very light and very glad. I am proud to know that I am a woman!"

"Thank God! So am I; but prouder still because you are always Lisle. Fate can alter your dress and your outward appearance, but it can't change Lisle Maxwell. That's what I'm proud of, little woman! Now take me to your friends."

"Yes, and afterward I'll get a carriage, and we'll take a ride together. I want to talk to you, not to strangers. But before we go to them, Lisle, there is one question that I want to ask you."

"No, Craig; I am glad that I am a woman. My heart is very light and very glad. I am proud to know that I am a woman!"

"Thank God! So am I; but prouder still because you are always Lisle. Fate can alter your dress and your outward appearance, but it can't change Lisle Maxwell. That's what I'm proud of, little woman! Now take me to your friends."

"Yes, and afterward I'll get a carriage, and we'll take a ride together. I want to talk to you, not to strangers. But before we go to them, Lisle, there is one question that I want to ask you."

"What is it, Craig?"

"Are you sorry now that you are a woman?"

"No, Craig; I am glad that I am a woman. My heart is very light and very glad. I am proud to know that I am a woman!"

kinds of information which he had to give in the same even tone in which he would have said, "It is raining." He rarely smiled, and he never frowned. Surprise never altered a line in his face nor changed the infection of his voice. With him no meant no and yes meant yes, and nothing could qualify either expression after he had once uttered it; so that when a card which bore the name of Lisle Maxwell engraved upon it and with Craig's name penciled beneath it was given to him early in the evening following the interview between Lisle and Craig he put it aside and said calmly:

"Admit them."

They entered the same room into which Lisle's father had borne her the night before he went away, a self-condemned outcast, and the quick mind of the lawyer already grasped the fact that it was the child who had returned, doubtless to acquaint him with the information of Richard Maxwell's (Philip Barrington's) death, but he made no sign when the young lady, accompanied by the tall stranger, entered the room, only saying with his aggravating calm:

"Be seated. What can I do for you?"

Lisle did not reply. She stepped forward and without a word of explanation gave the letter which her father had addressed to Craig into the lawyer's hands. He read it through to the end, raised his eyes and asked:

"Have you other proofs of your father's death?"

It was Craig's turn to act, and he stepped forward and laid the death certificate upon the table.

"H'm!" said the lawyer, examining it. "He has been dead something over two months. Now, young lady, if you will wait a few moments until I read a letter which your father left with me to be read by me after his death I will know how I am to talk to you."

He was exasperatingly slow in opening the great safe that was in one corner of the room, in the deliberation with which he took therefrom a bundle of papers, and at last separated one from the others. It was an envelope, sealed with wax, but he broke it open and, still crouching before the safe, read it to the end.

"Very good," he said at last, rising and resuming his chair. "Your father's letter places me entirely at my ease. I am told that, unless you otherwise determine, I am to act as your counsel in all things and that I am to exercise my own judgment in replying to any question upon which you may desire to be informed. Your father's will appoints me your guardian until you are of age. In addition to that, I am your attorney."

"What is it, Craig?"

"Are you sorry now that you are a woman?"

"No, Craig; I am glad that I am a woman. My heart is very light and very glad. I am proud to know that I am a woman!"

STORM IN THE SOUTH

Devastating Tidal Wave Sweeps the Gulf Coast.

LIFE REPORTED LOST.

New Orleans and Mobile Flooded and Other Points Isolated.

Many Gulf States Are Swept and a Heavy Loss of Life and Property Is Feared—Ships Destroyed and Houses Carried Away—Resorts Along the Coast Wiped Out by Angry Elements—Greatest Flood Since 1893.

Tremendous storms on the Gulf of Mexico sent a devastating tidal wave careening along the entire water front of the Gulf States, sweeping away lives and property, backing up the rivers, inundating thousands of acres of low land and isolating important points. The damage to property is extremely heavy, and it is feared that the loss of life will be appalling. Communication was cut off with districts where the chances for fatalities were greatest.

Mobile, Ala., Thursday night was completely isolated. Great damage has been done there along the water front, and in the lower part of the city. What loss of life there has been in Mobile can only be conjectured. At 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon the Western Union Telegraph office there was abandoned. About that time there was three feet of water in the operator's room.

The Associated Press operator made his way to the operating-room in a boat. He took a position on top of the switchboard several feet above the flooded office and succeeded in detaching his wire from its place on the board. Then by dint of labor and through contortion of the body he sent the following message: "An on top of the switchboard here with a line man. The water is over three feet deep in this room, and it is still rising. The wind is blowing at the rate of fifty miles an hour, and we look for worse things to-night. The business district is deserted."

Here the wire failed, and nothing more could be gotten from the plucky fellow, though repeated efforts were made.

A report from Mobile received over a railroad wire in the afternoon said that the mill of the Dixie Lumber Company was carried away and several employees were killed. In and near New Orleans vast stretches of land are under water, there is much suffering among the poor in the flooded districts, and along the Mississippi River.

Reports from points in Alabama and Texas show that a hurricane of unusual fury devastated an immense strip of country. It was regarded as probable, from the nature of the bulletins, that not only have railroad and factory properties been extensively damaged and traffic crippled, but that hundreds of people have been drowned.

It is also feared that thousands of acres of rice fields have been laid low by the wind or covered deeply by the water. There was a general tie-up along several branches of railroad lines, the Louisville and Nashville being particularly hard hit. Shipping interests were also imperiled, and there were many stories that a number of ships had gone down, all on board being lost.

Heavy Loss of Life.

The storm which swept the Gulf coast from Pensacola and moving westward during Wednesday and Thursday prostrated telegraph and telephone wires to such an extent that news from the outlying section was hard to get. The greatest fears were entertained for the safety of the people living at Port Eads, which is at the mouth of the Mississippi River, and for the ships that started for sea just before the storm began.

The wires to Port Eads were prostrated Tuesday night at 8 o'clock. The storm which swept that section is described as a regular tidal wave, similar to the one which resulted in such awful loss of life in 1893.

The house of a man named Cobden, half a mile above the quarantine station, was swept away, and the fifteen members of the family, including nine children, were drowned. The quarantine buildings were badly damaged, but no one injured.

The government boat General Reese is believed to have been lost. Capt. O'Brien's house was swept away, but he was on the boat which was believed to be outside. The pile driver at Port Eads was sunk. The steamboat Buras was driven ashore near the lighthouse, and later it was reported that she had sunk. Her crew were said to have been saved. The tugboat Velasco went down to Pass l'Outre, which is the eastern mouth of the river, with two barges. When last seen she had her decks awash and is believed to have gone down. Twenty people were on board.

There are numerous reports of individual casualties all along the river from Buras down to the Passes. There is a serious apprehension concerning the Cheniere Caminada and Grand Isle sections on the South Louisiana coast, west of the Mississippi River, where 2,000 lives were lost in 1893 by the tidal wave. Up to this writing no word has been received from that section, which is largely inhabited by fishermen, mostly Chinese and Malays.

Up to Wednesday midnight everything seemed to be safe at the Mississippi coast towns, Bay St. Louis, Pass Christian, Biloxi, Mississippi City and Ocean Springs.

The Louisville and Nashville Railroad is blocked off beyond Chef Menteur, thirty miles from New Orleans. The big steel bridge there is safe, but beyond there are several washouts on the road. The New Orleans and Northern Road is blocked by washouts, and its big trestle over Lake Pontchartrain has been shaken by the heavy seas breaking against it.

ILLINOIS STATE NEWS

OCCURRENCES DURING THE PAST WEEK.

Illinois Rivers to Be Harassed—Robbers' Den Near Chicago Is Raided—Long-Lost Sisters Meet—The Coloring of Barley Is Legal.

The news that the water of the Kankakee River, below the town of Kankakee, is to be utilized for the manufacture of electricity, to supply electric railroads, will probably have the effect of reviving interest elsewhere in the subject of making the best use possible of water power now going to waste. It is said that in the present instance property rights have been secured along the river between Kankakee and Wilmington by an Eastern company which is capitalized at $1,000,000. This company, it is reported, is to construct seven dams which are expected to produce more than 15,000 horsepower in electricity. This, it is estimated, would be enough to run all the operating and projected electric lines in the eastern part of the State.

Long-Lost Sisters Meet. After a separation of forty years, during the latter part of which they mourned each other as dead, Mrs. C. J. Neal, of North Chicago, has visited her sister, Mrs. Thomas McKnight, at Niagara Falls, N. Y., for whom she had searched for years. Recently Mrs. Neal visited her old home at Cedarburg, Wis., and learned from a relative that her sister was living. She at once wrote to Mrs. McKnight. The latter answered and refused to believe that Mrs. Neal was her long-lost sister until a second letter was sent with a photograph that looked familiar and a letter giving her family history. Then she insisted that Mrs. Neal must come on for a visit. The sisters separated in 1801, both moved around considerably and lost track of each other.

Raid Robbers' Island Den. All the elements of the most thrilling of detective stories were combined in a raid made by South Chicago detectives of a robbers' cave on an island in the Calumet River. One of the officers was forced to swim the stream and another in a rowboat ran down and captured a young criminal who was trying to escape by water. Three young men, charged with the robbery and subsequent destruction by fire of a number of freight cars during the past month, were captured in the raid, and so strong was the chain of evidence which the officers were around the suspects that a confession was secured from one of the latter.

Coloring of Barley Is Legal. Judge Daley, in Chicago, rendered a decision in the case against D. H. Stühr, charged with coloring barley, holding that the defendant was not violating the law by a process of purification. The court decided that Mr. Stühr or any one else could treat or color barley or other grain so long as the treatment was not against the public health. The suit was brought last November on a specified charge of purifying barley and other grains and changing their color.

Farmer, Victim of Robbers. In Chicago, Joseph Young, a farmer from Iroquois County, was assaulted by three colored men near the Illinois Central station, dragged into an alley, and after being beaten almost into insensibility robbed of his purse, containing $165. For some time after the assault the victim was in the alley unable to arise, while his assailants made their escape.

A dog committing suicide by poisoning is reported in Chicago. George Wright found it necessary to whip his Newfoundland. The dog went about for nearly two days, crestfallen. It would not eat and seemed to be broken-hearted. Then it licked the fresh green paint from a newly painted screen door and died.

Nashville is experiencing the most severe drought since 1854. The Carlisle lake, the source of the city's water supply, is dry, and the electric light plant has been forced to close down because of the lack of water. Half of the wells and cisterns are dry, and water is being hauled for private use. The situation is becoming worse each day.

The negroes of the Eighth Battalion at Camp Lincoln became troublesome and a clash with the local authorities was feared. This shooting of a negro thief by policeman, followed quickly by the fatal shooting of another negro and a vicious assault upon a third, aroused the fire of the colored militiamen, and only prompt action on the part of the officers in command prevented an outbreak.

BIG PRICES FOR FOOD.

VEGETABLES AND FRUIT ARE HIGH IN CHICAGO.

Present Cost a Shock to Housewives—The Late Spring and Drought Are Blamed for the Advance—Meat and Dairy Products Also Advance.

Chicago housewives and boarding-house keepers take full notice when they go to market these days, and even with larger pocketbooks they can purchase only limited quantities of vegetables and fruit. The backward spring, followed by long drought, has sent prices up in an unprecedented way. Young housekeepers never paid so much for supplies, and older ones have not seen such times for many years. While wholesale prices have increased by arithmetical steps, the street prices have taken their jumps by geometrical progression, and it is the latter which affect the householder. While the wholesale buyer can go into the market and find that only a moderate 50 or 60 per cent is added to his bill, the housewife finds that what she paid last year to buy everything for the Sunday dinner will not even buy enough cucumber pickles now.

Some High Prices. The combined influences of the backward spring and the drought have made Chicago the point to which cities that before were independent are looking for their supply. This has had the effect of adding still more to the prices at which produce is quoted. Merchants in South Water street, it is asserted, are called on daily to supply orders from Kansas City and Nashville. Other cities also are drawing upon Chicago. There has been a complete reversal of conditions. The almost complete failure of the market gardens in Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Kentucky, and Louisiana has brought the dealers in these States to Chicago for the produce they usually sold to Chicagoans.

Tomatoes that sold for 50 to 75 cents a bushel twelve months ago bring $2.50. "And even then," said one dealer, "the

H. M. FLAGLER GETS DIVORCE.

"King of Florida" Is Freed from His Inesane Wife.

At Miami, Fla., Tuesday, Henry M. Flagler obtained a divorce from his insane wife. The suit by which Mrs. Flagler was put aside by her multi-millionaire husband and in planning which years had been spent was disposed of in a fifteen-minute session of the court.

The case was heard by Judge Minor S. Jones, of the Circuit Court, sitting in chambers. The Standard Oil magnate, who is so mighty in his State as to be known as the "King of Florida," was represented by former Supreme Court Judge George P. Roney, who is accredited with engineering through the Florida legislature the bill in the interest of Mrs. Flagler by the provisions of which insanity for four years, standing in made sufficient grounds for divorce. Former Governor Fleming, who had been appointed guardian for Mrs. Flagler, represented the defendant, as a matter of form. There was practically no defense.

Mr. Flagler, in his seventy-second year, is once more free to marry again if he chooses. It has been persistently reported for more than a year that as soon as he obtained his divorce he would make a very young woman, a Southern girl of excellent family, his wife.

Disaster at Lake Erie. The Structure of Cleveland Burns and Workmen Perish. Five men were suffocated in the new Cleveland water works tunnel and three workmen were drowned as the result of a calamity at an early hour Wednesday morning. The new water works tunnel, crib No. 2, caught fire and was almost demolished. Three gangs of tunnel workmen, who live at the crib, were caught like rats in a trap, and either had to jump into the lake and possibly drown, or else go back into the tunnel to a probable death by suffocation. It is known that at least three men were drowned and a number were rescued. They belonged to the shift that was resting at the time and were forced to jump into the lake to escape a death by fire.

There were two shifts of thirty men each working at the new water works

VENEZUELAN LOSE HEAVILY IN HARD BATTLES.

General Castro Tells of Many Bloody Engagements—Three Hundred Men and Four Colonels Killed or Wounded—Battle Near Panama.

Mail advices, received in Washington from Caracas, Venezuela, give accounts of numerous engagements in the state of Tachira between President Castro's forces and the revolutionists. In Gen. Castro's official bulletins he mentioned the Colombian army. He reported engagements since the battle of San Cristobal, July 20, at Pirineos, Las Pelinas, La Parada, La Grita, Encantados, Colon and Las Cumbres, all in Tachira.

The Venezuelan casualties, according to Castro's official bulletins, were Gen. Rosendo Medina and four colonels killed, and 800 men killed or wounded. Medina was a prominent man. He was formerly a governor and senator. Aug. 8 there was an encounter at Las Cumbres with a second force of revolutionists.

Another army has invaded Venezuela with a force reported to number 5,000 men. Friday, Aug. 8, these troops attacked Las Cumbres, and were repulsed. The main divisions of the armies have not yet met.

The British steamer Darlen arrived at Kingston, Jamaica, from Colon, bringing reports of heavy fighting on the outskirts of Panama and Colon. The rebels were steadily advancing on the towns proper. A large number of men had been wounded. Many wounded men belonging to the government troops were taken to Colon. This is regarded as an indication of the persistence of the rebel attacks. The British consul at Colon has entered a protest against the rebels. The passengers of the Darlen say the chances of the liberal success seem better than ever since the commencement of the revolution. Guards are still kept on board the trains running between Panama and Colon. Both sides are committing atrocities.

Robbers Hold Up a Stage. Male Passengers Take to Bush—Outlaw Secure $1,000. Thursday afternoon robbers held up the Blue Mountain stage, near Glens Falls, N. Y., and secured $1,000 in money and jewelry. Eight passengers were aboard five men and three women. Two masked bandits, springing suddenly from the woods on the mountain side, shot down the leaders, who fell, tangling the wheel horses in the harness and throwing the driver, Bill Edridge, an old-time stage driver, in among the kicking horses. Four of the male passengers sprang from the stage as the shots were fired, and in spite of warning cries and shots fired in their direction escaped into the brush. One man, who had his wife with him, remained with the frightened women.

While one highwayman covered the passengers with his rifle the other went through their pockets and collected money, diamonds and jewelry. The mail pouches were ripped open and in the presence of the scared passengers the highwaymen opened all letters and pocketed the cash. They then turned their attention to the express packages, which were piled upon the coach. These were opened, and several containing bills were taken away.

The Callstoga and Clear Lake stage in California was held up by a lone highwayman. The passengers, numbering twenty or more, were relieved of their money. The mail bags and express box were rifled.

ILLINOIS CROP REPORTS.

Largest Yield of Wheat Recorded Since 1864—Corn Poor.

The following is a summary of the reports of crop correspondents in Illinois to the Illinois Department of Agriculture of the principal crops produced in the State:

Wheat—While the area of wheat harvested this season, 1,670,000 acres, is not much larger than usual, the average yield per acre of 17 bushels has brought the total yield to $1,400,000 bushels, the largest wheat crop produced in Illinois since 1864—a crop which has been exceeded but twice in the last ten years. Although the falling price—52 cents per bushel—is not so good as during the last two years, the average yield of wheat at this price would be $1,020,000, the best returns from this crop since 1892. Farmers were overhauled before harvest of considerable injury to the plant by Russian fly, but these fears were found to be almost entirely unfounded, as but 6 per cent of the crop was lost. The fall was so seriously damaged as to be plowed up, thus leaving 94 per cent of the area seeded for harvest.

Oats—As was estimated by crop correspondents early in the season, the area seeded to oats this year is about 7 per cent less than in 1900, the area reported being 730,000 acres. The State yield per acre of twenty-nine bushels varies greatly in different sections. Northern Illinois reporting an average yield of thirty-three bushels per acre, and Central Illinois thirty bushels, while in the southern division of the State that fourteen bushels per acre was reported. The total yield was 110,500,000 bushels. The average price per bushel of 32 cents has been equalled but twice in the last ten years, 1874 and 1882. At this valuation the oats crop for 1901 is worth $3,536,000. In some sections, especially in the Southern Illinois, the oats were so short that the crop was plowed up and the crop was moved, but in a few instances even this was impracticable and it was pastured. Wheat is generally clean and bright, it is rather light and will weigh out less than usual.

Corn—With the largest area planted to corn since 1874—1,088,000 acres—the average condition of this crop is the most discouraging ever known in the crop-reporting history of the State. With the planting season so late and a little late, other conditions were so discouraging June 20 that it was believed an average yield of 10 bushels would be produced. At this time portions of Southern Illinois were beginning to need rain and when the unprecedentedly hot weather of the latter half of July set in further seedling corn began to suffer. In more favorable localities the effects of the heat were not apparent quite so soon, but it was not long before the entire corn belt felt its effects. In many instances the tassels were burned by the hot sun before the ears were formed, the pollen thus being wasted instead of fertilizing the grain. In some cases comparatively few of the ears were formed, and in others the silk had not appeared, so that examination of the ears few grains on the cob where even that is to be found. As a general rule corn in bottom lands and that planted late in better condition than early corn or that on upland, but it is exceedingly hard to make any kind of a correct estimate. The conditions are so very unusual that the most experienced farmers find themselves at sea. Taking the most reliable estimates the Aug. 1 condition of the crop in Northern Illinois is that of a reasonable average; in Central Illinois it is 50 per cent and in the southern division of the State 25 per cent, giving a State average of 40 per cent. It should be remembered that this bulletin is based upon reports dated the first of the present month.

Yates Removes Dental Board. Governor Asks the Resignations of All Members. Acting upon information furnished him Gov. Yates asked for the resignation of every member of the State Board of Dental Examiners.

The executive was visited by J. H. Worman, American consul to Germany; J. N. Crouse, head of the Dental Protective Association, and G. V. Black, dean of the dental college of the Northwestern University. They came to make direct charges against the German-American School of Dentistry and the Commercial Post-Graduate School, two Chicago institutions which, they claim, had not been recognized by the State. They have been doing business with the board and furnished certificates from the dental board, signed by W. O. Jocelyn, of Cairo; J. H. Smyser, of Chicago, and O. A. Barr, who retired from the board some time ago. Worman and his companions intimate that legal proceedings will be brought against these three men. Jocelyn was present at the meeting of the board when the business was wound up and the members sent their resignations to the Governor. He declined, however, to discuss the charges against him.

To Rent; four-room cottage on Depot Ave., at $1 per month, 1/2 acre lot. Enquire of J. C. James, Sr. 87tf

The fine weather and races on Saturday filled many of the boys so full of sentiment and old time chivalry that some of the stone-hearted were cruel enough to murmur about the "cooler" but most of them were taken to "Washingtonian Homes" or cared for by friends at "Detention Hospitals." Tho' marshal Gray had a hard look in his eye and seemed everywhere present, he was only prevented from making attacks by earnest entreaties in many cases, on the part of relatives.

A horrible accident occurred at Salem, Wis., last Monday evening. Fred Johnson, a brakeman, while riding on the side of a box car, his feet resting on the journal, by a sudden jerk of the engine, caused him to lose his footing and he fell, his shoes catching together which threw him on to the rail, a car load of ice passing over his body just below the waist cutting him completely in two. He was 22 years of age and resided in Chicago, where the remains were taken Tuesday p. m.

Mr. Paul Renwan, and Miss Bell Welch, both of Prairie Home, Neb., were married at that place August 14th and left for Trevor, Wis., on the day following, where a large number of friends met them at the depot. A reception was given them by Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Booth, at their residence, about thirty guests being present. After congratulations a fine luncheon was served and good time enjoyed by all present. The young couple were the recipients of many nice presents both at Prairie Home and Trevor. The bride is well and favorably known in this vicinity. The News wishes the young couple a pleasant journey through life.

The News learns with regret of the death of Mrs. Fred Hamlin, of Lake Villa, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Gall, of this city, which occurred at her home, Monday afternoon, after an illness of a week with typhoid fever. Mrs. Hamlin was about 22 years of age and leaves to mourn her an infant of some six months of age, her husband, father, mother, one sister and one brother, beside numerous other relatives and friends. The funeral was held Wednesday and the remains were laid at rest in the cemetery at Mill Creek. During the present summer Mrs. Hamlin furnished the Lake Villa items for The News and was one of our appreciated corps of county correspondents. We extend to the bereaved husband and family our most sincere sympathy.

The races at the driving Park Saturday were attended by a large crowd.

The interest and enthusiasm displayed during the week was only a faint suggestion of the excitement Saturday. The large crowd suggested a real old-fashioned harvest picnic. The starter, Mr. Webb, did his work in a manner highly pleasing to everyone. The judges, Messrs. Ames, Hensheim and Thayer, acquitted themselves with special honors. The 2:40 race was won in three straight heats by Slooem; Kennedy second, and Chet. Ames third. The farmer's race was won by Webb's horse, driven by "Col." George Huber; Goodwin second, and Crawford third.

Northern Wisconsin Railroad Lands

are increasing in value from year to year. Railroads are the great civilizers, for they give the people as well as the manufacturer equal opportunity to work in undeveloped fields, thereby rapidly settling the country and bringing to its undiscovered riches. Northern Wisconsin is rich in iron ore, clay, limestone, timber and fine farm lands. It has made many a settler independent and added to the wealth of manufacturers who have sought this territory. Opportunities have not passed, as there is still a generous supply of land which can be obtained at low figures and on easy terms.

PERSIN SYRUP CO.
Dear Sirs—I feel it my duty to write to you and let you know how much good your medicine has done for me. Twenty-three years ago I was taken with some kind of stomach trouble and I tried everything I heard of. They did me but little good. Three years ago neuralgia set in on me and I got so poor and weak that I could hardly walk—couldn't work any. My husband received a book through the mail, advertising your medicine, and he sent our little boy to the drug store to get one of your ten-cent bottles. I began to use it. It is strange to say, but it's the truth, the second dose I took gave me lots of relief. I kept on using it till I used it nearly one year and now I am nearly as strong as I used to be and can do any kind of work. I recommend it to all, for it seems to me it would cure anybody. I have gotten several to use Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and they all say it has done them so much good. God bless Dr. Caldwell and his medicine for doing me so much good.
Yours with respect,

Delaware's Capital Grows Slowly.
Dover, the capital of Delaware, can not be correctly described as a thriving town in respect to its growth in population, which is less than that of Duck Creek Hundred in the same county and also less than that of Little Creek Hundred in Sussex county. Dover had by the last census a population of 3,329. The population of Wilmington was 76,508.

Indoor Men's Outdoor Habits.
President Barrows of Oberlin believes that the "rage" for athletics will be overruled for good; that we'll form the outdoor habit and be the healthier for it. "I had the ear of the leading business men of America," he says, "I would whisper in it as the wisest counsel I know to men over 50 years of age, 'Golf first and business afterward.' This means longer lived, more successful, happier and better American citizens."
